

The Folsom Point

Northern Colorado Chapter of the Colorado Archaeological Society

President's Corner

The NCC-CAS President, Susan Omori, will be sending a packet containing details of our new NCC-CAS Membership Meetings venue and a message on the progress of NCC-CAS for the last six months. Check your mailbox.

The letter will be coming by USPS.

We have a team of excellent NCC-CAS Board members that are working hard to make our renewed Chapter Top-Flight. If you have a special skill and want to join with us to make us even better, please contact me, Susan Omori at Twistedista54@gmail.com, and let's talk! Thank you to everyone that participated in our first-ever summer session of NCC-CAS.

You are welcome to come and participate in Board Meetings as a member. We would love to have you! Be Well and Take Care. Hope to see you all on Sept 8, 2016.

- Susan Omori

Program

“Road Scholars”

PURPOSE: INCREASE INTEREST AMONG UNDERGRADUATE ANTHROPOLOGY MAJORS/NON-MAJORS IN FIELD SCHOOL PARTICIPATION at UNC.

STRATEGY: Introduce cultural and archaeological sites in the U.S. Southwest to students, along with practical guides to practices of field schools, archaeology and ethnographic work .

Let's load a van with undergraduates at midnight, slide through that dark passage that is I-70, linking the campus with the Ancients of the American Southwest! By breakfast, the group enters the cavalcade of archaeological sites and cultural centers which cling to the highways of the 4-Corners. The van is the classroom, the sites support readings and texts associated with the study tour.

By our return to campus, 3 or 4 days later, students have invested a brief amount of time and money, but return with a command of the physical realities of the materials from their previous history and anthropology courses. Most report the experience motivates them to broaden their involvement in the anthropology department, many as majors – but ALL become familiar with their personal anthropological magnet.

August Speaker: Roger DeWitt

“Zebra Sentinel” Decorative Raku Art Pot

An original ceramic pot made especially for CAS! “Zebra Sentinel” stands 32” tall, featuring African porcupine quills, by Colorado Springs artist Jerry Rhodes. Value estimate $900++ Jerry Rhodes is a ceramic artist living in Colorado Springs, Colorado. His work has appeared in numerous juried shows and competitions. He currently exhibits in galleries in Colorado, Santa Fe and Taos (NM), Hastings-on-Hudson (NY), Charleston (SC), Georgetown (DC), and Bethlehem (PA), and has many pieces in private collections internationally. Jerry likes to combine seemingly disparate elements drawn from a global, temporal, and cultural palate to form a composition. Some pieces may blend science with antiquity; Einstein’s equations for Special Relativity carved around the rim of a classic Greek form, for instance, while others may represent a cultural fusion; African and Polynesian tribal components combined into a loosely symbolic presentation. Often he will use traditional style glazes and classic post firing reduction techniques, but other times he’ll use plant food, steel wool, and horsehair during the firing, and add African porcupine quills to complete a composition. The results are usually very dramatic. www.jerryrhodespottery.com

Mission Statement

The Colorado Archaeological Society is a non-profit organization committed to the stewardship of archaeological resources in Colorado. This is achieved through public education, research, and enhanced opportunities for responsible participation in archaeology for interested individuals and organizations.

The Colorado Archaeological Society (CAS) came into existence in 1935 as a focus for people having interest in the history and prehistory of humans in Colorado. The interest in archaeology led to the establishment of the office of the State Archaeologist within the History Colorado Society, a state government society.
